Dear colleague,

Even though prof. Penchev has already got in touch with you to inform you of the problem with editing your file for EAJ issue 4, it turned out I cannot work on it. There is a notice popping up with every attempt to edit it (saying that the spell checker is not available). Can you please send me another clean version of the file. Thank you in advance for your cooperation.

Dear Erwin,

I managed to open the file to edit it. I did my best to edit carefully the first 7 pages of the text. Please proofread them because I have made changes to many sentences, as you will see. Regrettably there were a lot of linguistic mistakes. My request is that you also read carefully the sentences highlighted in yellow on the following pages: 8,9,10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17. I cannot understand their meaning, so please revise them. I expect that you will be ready with the final version of your article by 20 November, because we need time for pre-print as well. Thanks in advance for your cooperation.

Dear colleagues,

please find attached the final version of your paper for Economic Alternatives.

I would like to ask you to check it carefully for typos or other small mistakes and if you find any - please, write me within 5 days.

You have to tell me the page, row, the mistaken word or number and the correct word/number.

VERY important - please, look at p. 702 - there is a missing formula (4) and some question marks. We can not publish the paper without this, so write me how to correct the manuscript.

Dear chief editor,

Hope you are in good health. We appreciate you for reminding us about the last revision of the manuscript. Here we attach an improvement to formula (4). In addition, from the file you provided, it appears that Figure 1 has not appeared on the paper. Please your wisdom.

Dear colleague (Prof.),

There are 2 parts that need to be corrected in this manuscript. First, the word "???" which has not been erased in the sentence above the function of equation (4) on page 702. Then, for Table 1, Table 2, and Table 3 (pp. 703-704) it seems that it requires improvement. It just needs to be tidied up, without changing any content. Next we send a little correction (attached in the pdf and word files). Have a nice weekend.

Population and Economic Growth Nexus: Evidence from Indonesia

Authors: Arfiah Busari, Eny Rochaida, Zamruddin Hasid, Erwin Kurniawan A.

Abstract

The priority of this paper is to examine the relationship to and impact of population on economic growth and selected variables in Indonesia. This paper uses time-series data of total population, purchasing power parity, Gross Domestic Product (GDP) and unemployment rate in Indonesia for the period 1987-2020. The data are retrieved from the World Bank World Development Indicator, St. Louisfed and Trading Economics. The method applied to analyze the data is Ordinary Least Square (OLS) with the support of EViews software. The finding shows that the population has a significant impact on the purchasing power parity, unemployment and GDP which means that the population indirectly impacts the economic growth in Indonesia. Both economic and demographic factors used in this paper are important in explaining the total population and economic growth in Indonesia and hence in view of policy implications. The implications may also allow the policymakers to come up with a new policy that helps to control the population growth in order to boost the economic growth in Indonesia.
