Dear Surya Darma,

You must enter the first name and surname for the authors (Asnawati), (at least two words, there can not be one single word).

The reviewer has noticed that you have used a lot of Self-Citation (Darma, D. C.), which is not good. You need to make correction in text and Reference section, to lower a number of self-citation, not more than 2.

After the corrections you should send us your paper again as soon as possible.

Editor of SAR Journal, we need to inform you that one of the authors owns PayPal. If you don't mind, you can send an invoice to diocaisar09@gmail.com.
Currently, due to the Covid-19 situation, the government is imposing restrictions on a large scale (including limited bank operating hours with customers who are also limited in number). Transactions will be easier if you go through PayPal.

Thank you, dear.

Abstract:

The challenge of Gapoktan tomato still depends on the infrastructure and it is approved by the network built by the government. The focus of the study is to find answers from tomato farmers about water and electricity infrastructure problems during the Covid-19 pandemic. We use social-based qualitative consultations with farmers who are members of Gapoktan tomatoes in Indonesia. Samples from this studio totaled 72 units of informants consisting of 12 questions. The question items are grouped into 2 indicators (social and economic). The conclusion of the study was revealed if answering informants was indeed very varied. At present, there has not been a significant problem with the two indicators discussed in the estimation of water and electricity infrastructure. Therefore, the electricity and water supply in the agricultural area is minimal; bias can lead to new problems such as social conflicts and income from farmers decreased due to Covid-19. This survey can be a reference and consideration for various parties related to the management of tomato cultivation in Indonesia.

Keywords - tomato cultivation, electricity and water supply, socio-economics, primary survey, Indonesia.
