Full Title: Covid-19, Fake News and Infodemic: Focus on Solution

Dear Authors
Your manuscript entitled "Covid-19, Fake News, and Infodemic: Focus on Solution," which you submitted to the Journal of Information Policy A, has been reviewed. The reviewer comments are included at the bottom of this letter.
Comment to the authors

Paragraph 1 author explains the situation that never happened before, but in recent studies, the scholars categorized the humanitarian crisis as H1N1, H5N1, and another disease.

At the end of the last paragraph of the introduction, the paper aims to identify policy organization without showing previous or relevant studies.

I am unclear about the aim of methodology, the methods using content analysis, but the author shows the holistic concept of policy strategy. Content analysis shows distinct approaches: conventional, directed, or summative. The techniques are used to interpret meaning from the content of text data.

Paragraph 4, what a considered author to put content analysis on a literature review? And is it a literature review of previous studies?

Is there a specific study in a particular institution? If there is an institution, please explain? The analysis will be general and who uses the applications you mention.

Summarize the last paragraph's findings to provide a final overview of the analysis.
