Dear author,

Some of our partners have jointly founded a new publishing house named Acadlore, aiming to provide young researchers and those from emerging countries with a platform for sharing and exchanging ideas. The official website of the publishing house is now accessible at <https://www.acadlore.com>. Acadlore has launched multiple peer-reviewed open-access journals, many of which are calling for high-quality submissions.

We noticed that your manuscript titled "Sustaining Agricultural Growth (The Traps of Socio-Demographics in Emerging Markets)" is more in line with the scope of one of Acadlore journals, Opportunities and Challenges in Sustainability, than that of IIETA journal you currently submitted to. We'd like to know if you are willing to transfer this article to that journal.

If you agree with the article transfer, you can either (1) have your next two submissions to Scopus-indexed IIETA journals published free of charge; or (2) receive a monetary reward of 200 US dollars. Please tell us which option you'd like to choose. Acadlore will handle your current article quickly, without charging any fee. Besides, our partners are confident that your article will be frequently cited by many scholars in various Scopus / SCIE-indexed journals, and become Scopus-indexed once the Acadlore journal gets indexed in Scopus in the coming two or three years.

If you disagree, your manuscript will continue to be processed by IIETA.

Please do not forget to reply this email, stating whether you agree or disagree with the article transfer. Your choice directly determines how your manuscript will be handled, and how soon the manuscript handling begins.

In addition, if you are willing to join the editorial board of any Acadlore journal, please send us your CV via email. You are more than welcome to share the information about Acadlore and their journals with your coworkers, and friends in the academic circle.

Below is a list of the updated journals of Acadlore:

Dear chief editors,

We really appreciate your offer. However, decisions must be made in consultation with the authors. Incidentally, one of the co-authors was on a working visit to a remote area in Indonesia. But first, I want to make sure of 2 things: 1) Will any of the journals in Acadlore be indexed "SCOPUS" in the future? and 2) Which journal do you recommend?. I want to get the guarantee before the outcome of the meeting is decided in 2-3 weeks. Waiting for a positive response from you.

All the best,
Dr. Surya Darma

Dear author,

Many thanks for your email.

If you have the interest, your article will be published free of charge in the journal, Opportunities and Challenges in Sustainability. We are also confident that the journal will be indexed in Scopus within two or three years. By that time, any article you published in that journal will become Scopus-indexed.

Dear chief editors,

We will inform you after the meeting between the authors. Also, if we approve, will there be non-APC for 2 articles submitted on IJETA and 200 USD compensation? This is important to consider, which is also to obtain certainty in the form of a letter of approval from the publisher and author.

Regards,
Dr. Surya Dharma

Dear Editors-in-chief,

After tonight's meeting and discussion, we decided to publish this paper into "Opportunities and Challenges in Sustainability". Then, what is the next submission mechanism? In addition, we want to hear from you, the reward for the 2 articles in "IIETA", is the order of the authors must same be with the articles submitted earlier? This is certainly important and becomes our focus, where there are authors (including myself) who are interested in submitting new manuscripts at IIETA. Waiting for a positive response from you.

Best regards,
Dr. Surya Dharma
